$100,000 At Stake In Ashdown Trial

Case Has Attracted Wide Attention Throughout County.

ASHDOWN, Jan. 28.—Trial of a civil suit contesting a will of Mrs. Lillian M. Gathright, pioneer Little River county woman, who died May 27, 1929 and left her entire fortune to a niece was started in Little River county circuit court Monday.

The niece, Mrs. Ethel Pauline Baldwin was bequeathed a fortune amounting to between $75,000 and $100,000, including rich farm lands in this county and the three storied Gathright hotel at Foreman.

Two brothers, C. Y. Huff and G. O. Huff, and a sister, Mrs. N. O. Schirmer, are attempting to break the will. The case has attracted wide attention throughout the county due to the prominence of the principals.

The will in which Mrs. Gathright named her niece as beneficiary was made at Hot Springs, on July 17, 1929, 10 days before the woman died.

The brothers and sister charge that when Mrs. Gathright made the will she was not of sound mind and that the niece had exerted undue influence upon her.

Between 20 and 30 witnesses have been called by both sides and trial of the suit is not expected to be concluded before late in the week.

The Huffs and Mrs. Schirmer have summoned a physician from the state hospital for nervous disease and a family physician to testify as to the mental condition of Mrs. Gathright prior to her death.

The plaintiffs are represented by six attorneys and Mrs. Baldwin has four legal advisers.

The day was consumed with testimony of two or three witnesses.

Arrangements were made with the American Management Association, represented by Col. Robert L. Rees, and comprising in its membership 500 of the largest industrial organizations in the United States, to make a tentative survey in their particular field. The American Medical Association has undertaken a similar survey for physicians and the American Dental Association will do the same thing for dentists.

Industrial Meet for Capitol City

Five Governors of Southern States To Attend Conference.

LITTLE ROCK, Jan. 28.—The most important convention ever held in Arkansas from the viewpoint of future benefit to the state, in the opinion of the Arkansas State Chamber of Commerce, will be that of the Southern Division, The American Mining Congress, at Little Rock, March 10-12 inclusive. It will be the first time the Congress has ever met west of the Mississippi river and it will bring to Arkansas hundreds of the leading figures in the Southern industrial and financial world. The congress meets in Arkansas as a result of the efforts of Judge J. H. Hand, of Yellville, vice president of the organization representing this state.

The convention will be a southern industrial development conference rather than a mining conference. The congress some years ago adopted the policy that inasmuch as every industry and virtually every activity of life utilizes minerals in one form or another it would devote itself largely to the development of industry in general rather than mining in particular.

Every Arkansan interested in the development of the state industrially should attend the congress, declares the Chamber, if for no other reason than to demonstrate to the many visitors from other Southern states that the people of Arkansas are alive to their opportunities. More than 150 members of the Kentucky Progress Association already have made reservations for the journey to Little Rock for the congress. Governor Gardner, of North Carolina, Governor Dan Moody, of Texas and at least five other governors of Southern states will head large delegations and Arkansas cannot afford not to be heavily represented.

Poultry "On the Hoof"

A STORY in The Star tells how L. M. Nelson, of Blevins last week shipped a carload of chickens to market.

There were three thousand live "broilers" in that car. Mr. Nelson accompanied it as far as Little Rock, where he picked up the man who was to watch it all the way to New York City. The poultry car has its own cabin, where the commission firm's agent lives and sleeps, and where he prepares food for the chickens, which on arrival in New York are said to weigh more than when shipped.

To us that was an intensely interesting story. Do you imagine that men no longer "ride herd"? Well they do—and today they go the last generation one better: They move poultry "on the hoof" by the solid carload.

Three thousand chickens isn't three thousand cattle, of course. But we have a hunch there is more money in three thousand chickens than in a carload of cattle.

If you ever imagined that trans-continental movements of livestock, with picturesque herdsmen bound from the plains to the Big Town, are a thing of the past, forget it! Right today Hempstead county is sending live chickens and expert poultrymen to watch them, all the way from Blevins to New York City.

The agricultural development of the section of northern Hempstead county around Blevins, is something Hope has always admired. Perhaps we have admired it most because the farmers of that section seem to know that elemental things like breakfast capitaloups and milk-fide broilers are still wanted in carload quantities by the benighted city folks back East.

Training their production guns at the rich markets of the big cities, is something that the farmers have usually done haphazardly.

But the farmers around Blevins have made an organized effort for many years. And organized effort always gets results.

The Job of Reformation

IT IS fairly obvious that America's prison system is not doing a very good job. Crime continues to increase. Investigators repeatedly assail our prisons as schools where hardened criminals teach the tricks of the trade to impressionable youngsters. If the reformation of the criminal is part of the prison's job, there will be no one to deny that the present system leaves a tremendous lot to be desired.

The most recent bit of evidence comes in a book, "Five Hundred Criminal Careers," by Sheldon Glueck and Eleanor Glueck of the Harvard University faculty.

In this book the Gluecks recount their studies of criminals in Massachusetts penal institutions. The figures they present are extremely interesting and valuable.

For example; they find that in 70 per cent of the careers studied, the criminal's home life had gone to smash before he reached the age of 14. Only one-third of the men were of normal intelligence. There had been prior delinquency in 80 per cent of the families represented. And—most damning of all—of 510 men discharged from the Massachusetts Reformatory between 1911 and 1922, 80 per cent returned to lives of crime.

Those figures indicate the nature of the task that faces our prisons. They would seem to prove quite clearly that mere severity and harsh discipline will never suffice. As Dr. Richard C. Cabot of Harvard remarks:

"Why should this regime reform anybody? In my experience there are few tougher and more unyielding structures in the world than a bad habit. It does not change as the result of a few months of forced, unpaid and unpalatable labor."

Reform, Dr. Cabot believes, requires one condition: "That someone should come to know and understand the man in so intimate and friendly a way that he comes to a better understanding of himself and to a truer comprehension of the world in which he lives."

An enormous amount of work, evidently, remains to be done.

Parole Dr. Cook?

IT IS reported that a parole has been recommended for Dr. Fredrick A. Cook, former Arctic Explorer who has served six years of a 14-year sentence for using the mails to defraud in connection with an oil promotion swindle.

Very often the suggestion for a parole for a prisoner of Dr. Cook's prominence brings loud protest; indeed, a couple of years ago there were vehement objections to a parole for Dr. Cook himself. But we do not believe that there will be any very grave objection if he is turned loose now.

After all, the man is 65 years old, and the latter part of his life has not been exactly pleasant. There is little danger that he will again prey on society.

By RODNEY DUTCHER

WASHINGTON, Jan. 28.—Such sincerity as there may be in Congress is about to be tested in its action on the administration's new prohibition enforcement program.

Up to the time this program was presented by the president, the National Commission on Law Observation and Enforcement, the attorney general and the secretary of the treasury, everyone here appeared so rabid or panic-stricken on the subject that any such program presented seemed rather certain to be made into law as soon as Congress could jam it through. The dry majorities in both houses are so enormous that it is a platitude in Washington that the dries can have anything they want.

Program May Fail
And yet, on Capitol Hill, one encounters a feeling of grave doubt as to whether more than one of the administration's major recommendations will be enacted during this long session of Congress. That one is the purely administrative matter of transferring control of enforcement from the Treasury to the Department of Justice. The proposal is an old one and there is no very good reason why it should not have been acted upon years ago.

But after all the recent orgy of ballyhoo one finds some of the staunchest and most important Anti-Saloon League men in Congress doubting seriously whether any other legislative action will be taken on prohibition in the near future.

The shouting and the tumult are dying down and it has to be proved whether all the noise meant very much. The government has spent 10 years proving that prohibition can be enforced as well as other laws only by extraordinary drastic measures. There are those who think that the recommendations before Congress are very far from sufficient drastic. Bishop Cannon has suggested a $200,000,000 appropriation and Dr. Clarence True Wilson of the Methodist Board of Temperance, Prohibition and Public Morals recently favored use of the army and the navy to enforce the law.

but here you have Congress shying away from a few changes in administrative detail and court procedure.

The important angle is that even some of the most enthusiastic dries are openly objecting to the merits of the proposals, especially in the Senate. The commission's recommendations for the trying of many violations before the United States commissioners has come in for especially hard knocks, with much worry about the danger of limiting the right for trial by jury. But this proposal is of great importance, for Commissioner Dornan himself has said that it won't do any good to hire more prohibition agents until the courts are speeded up.

Even the proposal to transfer enforcement from Treasury to Justice will encounter a jam in the Senate of greater or lesser significance. The administration and the commission recommended retaining industrial alcohol control in the Treasury, but Senator Borah and others who hold that alcohol diversion constitutes a grave problem insist that such control also be shifted to the Justice Department.

The man next door has a dog he calls Grover. Asked for the reason for this variant of Rover, he told us it wasn't a variant at all, but the dog was named after Grover Whelan, New York's greater-police commissioner, "because he greets everyone so enthusiastically."

Pin money

A FIVE-CENT PAPER of pins as a wedding gift would now be considered bizarre and the donor "tight," to express it mildly. Yet pins were once so scarce that none but the wealthy could afford them. A box of pins was the ne ultra of wedding presents, as much admired as costly jewelry and silverware.

As pins became less expensive and in more common use, women were provided with a certain amount of money to be devoted exclusively to the purchase of pins. And so the expression "pin money," was originated. The phrase now has a much broader meaning and denotes any allowance to wife or daughters for personal and incidental expenses.

Pin money now buys a thousand and one things dear to the hearts of womenfolk. The advertising columns are scanned eagerly by millions of women to see what is offered that comes within purse limits. They know that the advertisements enable them to buy wanted articles at reasonable cost.

Advertising also keeps them informed of the latest news in the world of fashion. It tells what Paris is wearing in dresses, hats, hosiery and footwear. It pictures gowns for evening, afternoon and street wear, as well as simple little house frocks that are charming in their simplicity. Advertising introduces improved household utensils, new foods, automobiles in gay colors—in short, everything that the heart of woman could desire.

And that is why women are such careful readers of advertising. It enables them to make their pin money buy more and last longer. It helps them keep expenses within the household budget. Every one should read advertisements. It is one of the simplest habits to cultivate, and pays dividends in savings and personal comforts.

Read the advertising in this newspaper... it is full of things you want to know and buy.

Menu For the Family

BY SISTER MARY

DOES your family refuse to eat plain, everyday stewed prunes? Then try these recipes for luncheon or dinner and overcome all objections.

A prune cocktail for dinner is a concoction very different from stewed prunes for breakfast. A ring of prunes for dessert will be welcomed as a treat, and when the same once despoiled prune appears stuffed in a salad, no one will recognize it.

In the winter, when succulent vegetables are not plentiful and the variety of fresh fruits is rather limited, it pays to use dried fruits of all kinds as often as possible. Prunes particularly are a valuable food and form an important part of the diet.

Since prunes are graded for market these days, it's quite easy for the housekeeper to get exactly what she wants. Generally speaking, the best grades are the cheapest in the long run, for they are the finest flavored and contain the smallest stones. However, the ways in which the fruit is to be used, of course, determines the grade wanted.

Prune Cocktail
Twelve fine large prunes, 1 lemon, 1 orange.

Choose the best prunes available. Scrub well through several waters. Cover with cold water and let stand overnight. Bring slowly to the boiling point in the same water, reduce heat and simmer until the prunes are tender and plump. Do not let the water boil during the cooking. Let stand in liquid until cool. One tablespoon sugar can be added when fruit is removed from fire if too tart. When cool, cut in neat halves and remove stone. Add juice from lemon and orange, and chill thoroughly. Serve in cocktail glasses. The recipe will serve four persons.

Ring of Prunes
One pound prunes, 1-2 cup sugar, 4 teaspoons granulated gelatin, 1 cup whipping cream, 4 tablespoons powdered sugar, 1-4 teaspoon vanilla, candied cherries, citron.

Wash prunes well through several waters. Let stand overnight in cold water to cover. Simmer gently in this water until tender and plump but not broken. Drain and measure juice. There should be two cups. Add sugar and bring to boiling point. Remove from fire and stir in gelatin softened in 4 tablespoons cold water. Stir until dissolved. When cool, dip each prune with stone removed in gelatin and place around a ring mold in rows. When prunes are firm to the touch, add jelly and let stand in a cold place until firm and chilled. Turn out on a large plate and fill center with cream whipped until firm, sweetened with powdered sugar and flavored with vanilla. Garnish with cherries and thin narrow strips of citron.

Salad Prunes
Sixteen fine large prunes, 1 package Neufchatel cheese, 2 tablespoons finely chopped nut meats, cream.

Scrub prunes and wash through several waters. Cover with boiling water, cover bowl closely and let stand until cool. Drain and remove stones. Mix cheese with nuts and enough cream to make moist. Fill prunes with mixture and serve on a bed of lettuce hearts with French dressing.

Mr. and Mrs. S. W. Mulkey and children of Horace were guests Sunday night of Mrs. J. C. Hill.

Mr. and Mrs. R. F. Caldwell spent Sunday with their daughter Miss Virginia Caldwell near Nashville.

Below the Fashion Dixie Line

Not exactly conservative, but pretty, aren't they—these flashy Florida fashion fads? The social registerites have registered approval of gaudy beach pajamas, and at the left you see two dazzling costumes worn at Palm Beach by members of New York's younger society set, Helen Beadleston (left) and Antoinette Johnson. You'll notice, too, that big straw hats have flopped back into the mode. You'd expect Mrs. Paul Whitman, wife of the "Jazz king," to have a lot of harmony in her ensemble, and she is pictured at the right in white silk sailor trousers with matching white beret and white beach sandals.

Brokers at the Breakers

Stock buying waves are breaking along the "tropical Wall Street" of Miami Beach, Fla., where bathing-suited financiers intersperse plunges into security deals with dips into the Atlantic and come off surf boards to take a peek at quotation boards. For elaborate ocean front "brokerage Clubs" like the one pictured below have been established for the convenience of vacationing traders. And shown above is a scene on the seaside "Exchange," with customers, in beach attire, just come out of breakers looking for a break on the market, fearful of a dip in prices, and careful to avoid "watered" stock!

Savory Dishes of Aged Negro Lure Notables to North Carolina Camp

Rex Beach, noted writer, upper left; Babe Ruth, upper right and Irvin Cobb, humorist, are among the celebrities who took to Dave Sampson's hunting camp each year for his famous barbecue, collard and corn bread.

RALEIGH, N. C., Jan. 28.—To paraphrase Emerson, "if a man cooks better food than his neighbor, though he build his house in the woods, the world will make a beaten path to his door." And to illustrate the truth of the phrase, consider Dave Sampson, 77-year-old negro chef, whose luscious dishes have lured national celebrities and sportsmen from all parts of the United States to his modest hunting camp in the fastnesses of eastern North Carolina.

Even though Babe Ruth, Rex Beach and Irvin Cobb—to mention only a few of the prominent—have trod the path to his camp door, Dave, the custodian of the kitchen, says modestly, "Ah ain't much for style." But in the same breath he adds, "But ah'm strong for substance." And that explains, perhaps, why his cooking is popular.

The Teeter-Totter in Sport

Ups and downs come mighty suddenly in what we sometimes sentimentally call this old world of sport. And the distance between hisses and applause is not far to travel.

In or memory of sport there is no character who changed the minds of the followers of sports in the tremendous way Jack Dempsey did. The wave of public feeling against Dempsey following the printing of those pictures he had taken in the shipyards, in which he wore patent leather shoes and held a riveting hammer, swept across the county like a storm. A few years later, and Dempsey, fighting in Soldiers Stadium to regain the championship he had lost to a man who went to France in the Marine Corps, was the fellow they wanted to see win.

The people who watch sports events boo just as heartily as they clap, but when a champion shows the ability, they accept him, no matter how he wins.

Sports writers often form snap judgments of the actors in the sports drama. These opinions pass from one to the other. People who never have seen Gene Tunney hated him as bitterly as though he had passed them in the street with a fishy stare. Tunney has been awarded the reputation of being "high hat," but there are qualities about this man that make the charge that he is a snob seem trifling.

Tunney and the late Ray Campbell, Cleveland sports writer, were close friends once; later they fell apart. When Campbell was seriously ill, Tunney was the first to rally to his aid, demanding that specialists be sent to attend him; that everything possible be done to help him, and that the bill be sent to Tunney.

Carnera's 70-Second Victory

That does it! To new heights rose the mighty Sig. Primo Carnera of Italy—skycraper among pugilists—when, as pictured above, he lumbered to a corner while "Big Boy" Peterson, of Minneapolis, vainly tried to rise before Referee Jack O'Sullivan counted him out. Madison Square Garden, New York, was jammed with curious fans who were entertained with just 70 seconds of freakish fighting. Peterson went down three times in rapid succession before the gigantic Italian completely dazed him with a right hook to the jaw.

DID YOU KNOW THAT—

Miami is not so crazy about playing host to the Sharkey-Scott fight, according to the sports writers down there. . . . Cliff Mosier of the Miami News says the town doesn't want to see Scott with Sharkey or anyone else. . . . Not many promising looking recruits get away once they are enmeshed in the Cardinals' chain store system. . . . But Tony Cucinello, came right straight up to the majors after Danville, a Cardinal testing ground, turned him away. . . . Tony was the most talked about player in the American Association last year. . . . He equalled the batting mark of "Dusty" Cooke of St. Paul, which was .358. . . . Cooke is figured ready to make good with the Yanks. . . . Now he's to go south with the Cincy Reds. . . . The lad plays a nifty third base, too. . . . Bobby Jones has won nearly every important championship in golf except the British amateur, and if you take our word for it, he'll win that this year.

And Dr. Willing?

It wouldn't surprise this writer to find one day that Dr. Willing as the painstaking coast golfer who won such general hatred in the amateur at Pebble Beach last fall, had become a popular figure in the eye of the sports world. His dilatory tactics enraged several of his opponents in that tournament, and the gallery fought him almost a man. He battled on, in his way, regardless of the sentiment against him.

Now we learn that only Bobby Jones ranks ahead of Dr. Willing as a medalist in last year's play. What was regarded as his exasperating delay may become merely painstaking skill. The very thing the galleries hated about Dr. Willing's style may become admirable, even if eccentric in the eyes of those who watch the golfers go about their business. That is the way the teeter-totter works in sports.

A dentist's patient coming out of gas after having a tooth extruded remembers where he had hidden a sum of money eight months before.

Basket Ball At Armory Tonight

Piggly-Wiggly Five Clash With Strong Team From Columbus.

A new basketball team in this city has recently been organized. "The Piggly-Wiggly" five, managed by Carl Copeland of the local store.

This team is composed of former high school basketball stars, who have rounded themselves into shape for their initial tilt this evening with the Columbus team. The game is to be played at the armory here.

Wednesday night the team will clash with a strong aggregation from Emmott, who are said to be one of the strongest in this section, having beaten Ouchita College in a hard fought game recently.

The Piggly-Wiggly team is composed of such veteran tossers as Meadows, Plant, Taylor, Eason and Darwin.

New Western Thrill at Grand Wednesday

There's never a dull moment along "The Long, Long Trail," Hoot Gibson's latest Universal thriller, which comes to the screen of the New Grand theatre Wednesday.

Riding, fighting, romance and humor by feature every minute of "The Long, Long Trail." It is Hoot Gibson at his most exciting best. It is a talking picture.

Hoot plays the part of a bashful cowboy who falls in love with a beautiful girl from the East. Everything depends on his winning the rodeo sweepstakes—and then villain makes it hot for Hoot.

Especially interesting are scenes made at the Salinas, California, rodeo. Hoot and his outfit stayed a week at location at the rodeo, and most colorful and exciting scenes were obtained.

Hoot knows all there is to know about exciting rodeo scenes. He once carried off the all-around championship at the famous Pendleton round-up.

Foiled by Moderation! THE HEARTLESS SHADOW that threatens the modern figure

AVOID THAT FUTURE SHADOW*

By refraining from over-indulgence, if you would maintain the modern figure of fashion

Avoid the snags along the common-sense path to fitness and fashion. Don't let over-indulgence deprive you of the tantalizing contour of the modern figure. Be moderate—be moderate in all things, even in smoking. Eat healthfully but not immoderately—when your eyes are bigger than your stomach, reach for a Lucky instead. Coming events cast their shadows before. Avoid that future shadow by avoiding over-indulgence, if you would maintain the graceful, modern figure with its captivating curves.

Lucky Strike, the finest Cigarette you ever smoked, made of the finest tobacco—The Cream of the Crop—"IT'S TOASTED." Everyone knows that heat purifies and so "TOASTING" not only removes impurities but adds to the flavor and improves the taste.

"Coming events cast their shadows before"

"It's toasted"

*Be Moderate! . . . Don't jeopardize the modern form by drastic diets, harmful reducing girdles, fake reducing belts or other quack "anti-fat" remedies condemned by the Medical profession! Millions of dollars each year are wasted on these ridiculous and dangerous nostrums. Be Sensible! Be Moderate! We do not represent that smoking Lucky Strike Cigarettes will bring modern figures or cause the reduction of flesh. We do declare that when tempted to do yourself too well, if you will "Reach for a Lucky" instead, you will thus avoid over-indulgence in things that cause excess weight and, by avoiding over-indulgence, maintain a modern, graceful form.

Here's What The Census Enumerator Will Ask When He Calls On You

By RODNEY DUTCHER
NEA Service Writer

WASHINGTON, Jan. 25.—One hundred thousand census enumerators are about to swarm over the land, ringing doorbells and asking questions of millions of housewives as to how they are getting on.

Here's how:
Tell him everything he asks.
If he seems to be putting questions that are not any of Uncle Sam's business, you can make him show you the specific question on the official list, but the chances are that he won't do that.

Federal law provides that anyone who refuses to answer or to answer correctly the questions the government wants answered or answer them in the best of his knowledge, shall be subject to a maximum penalty of a fine and 60 days of imprisonment. No one has ever been penalized under this statute, but census takers have often used the law as a threat when answers were refused.

The rest of your conduct, when the census enumerator calls, is optional. You can keep him standing in the doorway or you can invite him into the parlor and serve ice cream and cake.

His only job is to ask the stipulated questions and get the answers as best he can. He has no right to do more.

What They'll Ask

The enumerators will be around early in April. The 1930 censuses of population, agriculture and employment will be taken simultaneously, beginning April 2. These are the 21 questions they will ask in the population census, which will cover approximately 122,000,000 persons:

1. Relationship to head of family, including a statement as to the "home-maker" in each family.
2. Whether home is owned or rented.
3. Value of home, if owned, or monthly rental, if rented.
4. Radio? (Yes or No.)
5. Does this family live on a farm?
6. Sex.
7. Color, or race.
8. Age at last birthday.
9. Marital condition.
10. Age at first marriage, if any.

called on in most cases to answer the census questions.

11. Attended school or college any time since Sept. 1, 1929?
12. Able to read or write.
13. Place of birth. (State or country.)
14. Father's place of birth. (State or country.)
15. Mother's place of birth. (State or country.)
16. Mother-tongue of each foreign-born person.
17. Year of immigration to United States, if foreign-born.
18. Whether naturalized, if foreign-born.
19. Whether able to speak English, if foreign-born.
20. Occupation of each gainful worker.
21. Industry in which employed.
22. Whether employer, employee or working on own account.
23. Whether actually at work.
24. Whether a military or naval veteran of the United States, and if

Mostly Up to Housewife

Whoever is at home to answer these questions must supply the information for everyone living in the house. In most cases, this will mean the housewife as the man of the house probably will be at work when the census enumerator calls.

With reference to Question No. 23, a special form is provided to cover persons who did not work "yesterday or on the last regular working day." There are five questions to be used "if this person has a job." How many weeks since he has worked at that job? Why was he not at work yesterday? Does he lose a day's pay by not being at work? How many days did he work last week? And four in case the person has "no job of any kind." These are: Is he able to work? Is he looking for a job? For how many weeks has he been without a job? Reason for being out of a job?

Farmer to Be Quizzed

The schedule for farmers is a long one, containing 232 questions. It covers the farm operator himself, farm acreage, pasture, drainage, farm tenure, farm debts, taxes and expenditures, farm machinery, cooperative marketing, number of domestic animals of various species, crops of all kinds, value of products, movement of farm population, etc. Sample schedules are sent to farmers well in advance so that they may figure out the data and be ready for the enumerator.

Women who decline to reveal their ages will not, as a matter of policy, be threatened with a fine or a term in the hoosgow. The census taker is at liberty to make his own guess. But most women are said to be frank about their ages. Information given is held secret and cannot be used to incriminate anyone. Thus, if a few thousand persons describe their occupation as "bootlegging," they will not be bothered because of their frankness. But the Census Bureau expects very few bootleggers to be honest about it; most of them have other ostensible occupations.

Finish in Two Weeks

There are 574 supervisory districts where the census returns will be received and given a preliminary count before being sent on to Washington.

Pity the poor farmer . . . the census enumerator is going to ask him 232 questions.

Each census taker is paid according to the number of persons or farms he enumerates. He or she, that is, inasmuch as 20 or 25 per cent of the enumerators are likely to be women. They are all supposed to finish their territory within two weeks after the census begins.

Some of them have really difficult tasks climbing into the more remote fastnesses of the country. A certain tiny percentage of maniacs or cranks is bound to be encountered, with a modicum of strange experiences. For instance, one enumerator pumped a Texas farmer's wife in the last agricultural census while the farmer was away. When the farmer returned and heard that his wife had told all he leaped on a horse, overtook the enumerator and forced the paper from him at a pistol's point. After federal officials had threatened him with arrest, however, he gave it back.

Chicago's "Mrs. Snyder" on Trial

With the state unexpectedly demanding the death penalty for the murder of her husband, Mrs. Genevieve O'Brien went on trial at Chicago, only 36 hours after her alleged lover, Samuel Howard Dorr, had been sentenced to life imprisonment in the same courtroom. The two are alleged to have conspired to kill Mrs. O'Brien's husband, in another Snyder-Gray case. Above, Mrs. O'Brien is shown with her attorneys, Samuel Hoffman, left, and Charles Dougherty, right. Below, in court.

Business College Assured

The establishment of a branch of the Little Rock Business College in this city is now virtually assured and those in charge plan to open the institution not later than March 1. Judging from the number of inquiries received at chamber of commerce headquarters the school should open with a large enrollment. The management is offering very attractive tuition rates to those enrolling early and those interested in the one of the courses should register at once in order to receive the benefit of these special rates.
The Little Rock Business College

is one of the old established commercial schools of the state. It has won a reputation for its thoroughness in training students and for its ability to place its graduates in responsible positions.
All graduates of the local school will be given a Little Rock Business College diploma, thus receiving the benefit of the reputation of the present school.

Hope Progress

As Observed From the Office of Hope Chamber of Commerce, by W. Homer Pigg, Secretary

Hope On Air Mail Route

Another step has been taken in the establishment of an air route from Louisville to Fort Worth. A bill authorizing an appropriation for this purpose has been introduced in Congress and all indications now point to its early passage.

A meeting of representatives from all towns and cities between Memphis and Texarkana was held in Little Rock last week. B. R. Hamm, chairman of the aviation committee attended this meeting, and reports of the Hope Chamber of Commerce, that a great interest in the new air mail route was manifested by practically every town on the route through Arkansas.

It was the unanimous opinion of those attending the meeting that, within the next fifteen years, this route will mean as much to the various towns as a trunkline railroad now means to them.

There are certain requirements that must be met by the local communities before the route will formally be established: must be provided and these must be lighted according to government specifications. This work must be done by the local communities.

NERVOUS SHOCK LEFT HER WEAK

Missouri Lady Took Cardui and Soon Felt Much Stronger and Better.

Springfield, Mo.—"A few years ago, I was in an auto wreck and suffered a nervous shock that caused me to get very weak and run-down," writes Mrs. Henry Johnson, 1201 State Street, this city.

"I was down in bed, getting weaker all the time. Nothing seemed to be doing me any good, or giving me any strength. I couldn't raise up in bed."

Mrs. Johnson says that on the advice of a friend, she decided to try Cardui.

"After I began taking Cardui, I began to get stronger, so of course I kept it up. In a short while I was out of bed, feeling much stronger and better, and not so miserable and nervous. Since that time, I have always been glad to say a good word for Cardui."

This well-known medicine is an extract of valuable medicinal herbs, and contains nothing harmful or injurious. It has been in use so long, its merit has been proved by the experience of thousands of women.

Try Cardui in your case.

CARDUI
Used by Women
For Over 50 Years
A companion medicine to Cardui—Theodore's Black-Draught for Constipation, Indigestion, Biliousness.

In addition to this, the route must be lighted every ten miles but this will be done at government expense. Other cities along this route are taking the necessary steps to meet the requirements. Hope should lose no time in making the necessary preparations.

Agricultural program commended.
The Hope Chamber of Commerce has recently received many compliments on its agricultural development program.

The editor of one of our leading farm papers writes: "I believe that Hope business men and farmers can compliment themselves on the most progressive and united agricultural programs of any county in the state."

The president of one of our state educational institutions recently wrote us: "I wish to congratulate you upon the interest manifested in agricultural development in your section. I think you have one of the most progressive programs of any Chamber of Commerce of which I have any knowledge."

Our dairy development program as well as our program for the development of a system of diversified agriculture has received much favorable publicity. The recent shipment and distribution of a train load of agricultural limestone to the farmers of Hempstead county has been the subject of much favorable comment. Stories have appeared in the Missouri Pacific Agricultural Bulletin, the American Messenger, the Arkansas Farmer and a number of the leading farm papers of the South.

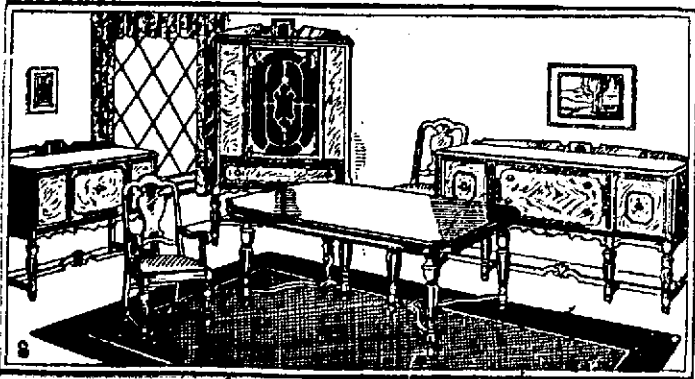

The soundness of our program is proven by the fact that similar programs have been adopted by the American Bankers' Association, the Arkansas Bankers' Association and a number of other agencies interested in the general development and prosperity of the entire country.

Surely the Hope Chamber of Commerce is on the right road and deserves the whole-hearted support of our entire citizenship. With a sound system of diversified agriculture, this section will prosper and our people will have no cause to suffer from strikes, shut-downs and other disorders experienced by some sections of the United States.

Trade Extension Work.
One of the most important problems now confronting the business men of Hope is that of enlarging our trade territory in keeping with other developments in this territory. Hope is the logical trade center for a large territory and the building of improved highways in all directions
